Welcome to oldest wine festival in the United States

Dear Friends,

1990 marks the 93rd celebration of the Valley of the Moon Vintage Festival.

This festival has been organized, planned and executed by a highly dedicated group of Sonomans and Sonowomans, all of whom serve without compensation to put on what is the oldest wine festival in the United States and the biggest community event of the year in what last year's Co-Grand Marshal Herb Caen called "The perfect small town."

Long before January of this year, when the first teams of pruners braved the foggy damp of winter mornings and began to carve the vines of the Sonoma Valley, and even as the last fermentations were underway in our many fine wineries, this weekend's festival was already planned.

WHAT IS IT like to organize the Vintage Festival?

It's a bit like organizing an outdoor wedding... in the fall, when it can rain.

In the grips of a serious multi-year drought, I've spent my time in church praying that it will not rain and praying just as hard that some fellow worshiper with a dying lawn can't read my lips or mind.

If you are a Sonoman, you know what the Vintage Festival means. It means you brave the crowds in the Plaza and see almost everyone you know. It is THE weekend of the year.

MIKE NUGENT
1990 Vintage Festival President

If you are a vintner, it's also a brief few hours away from the crush and a chance to take off the rubber boots and get away from the rumble of trucks, to escape the whine of electric motors running crushers, presses and pumps.

If you are a visitor from out of our area, you are a welcome guest at a community festival which sometimes feels like a family party.

TO A LARGE extent, this is a weekend for families. If it's not accurate to call this a family party, it is certainly a party for families.

It's the same thing you'd do at home, except this party starts on Friday night and doesn't end until Sunday evening. And, in this case, we have invited and planned for thousands of guests, but no one sends an RSVP.

Here's a little of what you can expect this weekend and you should get an idea why the planning process has taken almost a year:

A lavish wine tasting for 600... GREAT WINE... Two parades... Two weddings... A revolution... We bless grapes... We stomp grapes... We award winemakers... bubble-blowing contests... rock 'n' roll... mariachis... water fights... tap dancers... bagpipers... storytellers... clowns... GREAT WINE... Indian dancers... country music... banjo bands... marching bands... swing bands... Scottish fiddlers... GREAT WINE... sing-alongs... circus acts... games for kids... cooking demonstrations... rock climbing... horses with riders... ponies for rides... horse and wagons... stagecoach rides... old cars... GREAT WINE!... and food, food, food.

AS MY TENURE in office runs down, I would like to publicly acknowledge and thank the volunteers and members of the Vintage Festival Board for the incredible work they have done.

My thanks also goes to the city of Sonoma, the county of Sonoma, the Vintners Association, the Visitors Bureau, the Community Center, and all of the PTA community and the church groups that have given us their support.

Someone once said that the real distinction between leading a community volunteer organization and being a lion tamer in the circus is that the circus lions don't know that the pistol has blanks in it.

I was lucky that the "lions" who have worked so many hours and suffered the stress of deadlines and disappointment have only a strong appetite for community involvement and dedication to bring you the best Vintage Festival ever.

Visitors and locals alike, please take a moment as you enjoy the weekend to greet the members of the 1990 Board and all of the volunteers as they continue to work around the Plaza to put on a great party.

Give them a pat on the back. They deserve it.

Patrons' Tasting opens festival

Tonight (Friday), from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m., the Valley of the Moon Vintage Festival begins with its gala wine tasting event for patrons.

The event is the Vintage Festival Board of Directors' way of saying "thank you" to the patrons who donated $20 (or more) to support the festival's weekend activities.

Without these donations, there would be no Vintage Festival.

The tasting, held at the historic Sonoma Barracks "rain or shine," will feature Sonoma Valley food and wines donated by Sonoma Valley vintners, restaurants and food producers.

This year, Sonoma specialty appetizers will be provided by Feed Store Cafe, Glen Ellen Square Deli, Jim DeJoy Caterer, Magliulo's Restaurant, Marioni's Restaurant, Grist Mill Inn, Pasta Nostra Restaurant and La Casa Restaurant.

In addition, the Sonoma Valley Cuisine Society will provide a special display of Sonoma food products.

Each patron will receive a commemorative blue-stemmed wine glass, symbolizing the Sonoma Valley appellation.

As has been the case for the past many years, the Patrons' Tasting is a sell-out with some 650 patrons and guests expected to attend. No tickets are sold at the door.

Those interested in attending next year's patrons event can write to the Vintage Festival Association, PO Box 652, Sonoma, CA 95476 for more information.

The wines that will be poured at the Patrons' Tasting are listed on the opposite page.

Some of the patrons are listed below:

Don't miss children's and big parades

Jerry Graham, host and co-producer, of KRON-TV's Bay Area Backroads will be the grand marshal for the 1990 Vintage Festival parade 2 p.m. Sunday. Graham's trademark Volkswagen will carry him around the Plaza parade route.

The big parade will feature colorful floats, marching bands, horseback riders, antique cars, marching units and more.

Sonoma Index-Tribune Editor Bill Lynch, will be the parade's announcer.

He will be joined on the parade stand by judges Doug Davis of Sebastiani Vineyards; Valerie Brown, Vintage Festival past president; Barbara Martin, president of Sonoma Valley Unified School District board of trustees; and Dick Gregory of Plaza Liquors.

The Vintage Festival Children's Parade, set 2 p.m. Saturday will feature Becky London and Babar the Elephant as co-grand marshalls.

London, daughter of author Jack London, lives in Oakland but is a frequent visitor to the Valley of the Moon, home of her famous father and where she spent a good part of her childhood.

Babar the Elephant, title character of a series of children's book, is well-known to children all over the world, according to parade chairperson, Celia Zbinden.

This year's parade will also incorporate the creative services of PMS Musical D.J.'s, two entertainers from Napa. They will synchronize the entire children's parade for a full range of music.

Awards will be presented immediately after the parade this year at the Depot Park. The parade will be judged by students representing each of the five Valley elementary public schools.

THE WELLS FARGO stagecoach, which once delivered Agoston Haraszthy's selection of 200,000 European wine grape cuttings to Sonoma Valley, will once again ride into Sonoma, participating in the Vintage Festival's Big Parade 2 p.m. Sunday.

SONOMA VALLEY WINEGLASS

Blue-stemmed wineglasses have been specially created for the wines of the Sonoma Valley. Rich in California wine history, the vineyards of the Sonoma Valley stretch north from San Pablo Bay to Santa Rosa between the Mayacamas and Sonoma mountains. Here, dedicated winemakers produce wines of outstanding quality and character. Use of these distinctive wineglasses serves to recognize the heritage of the Sonoma Valley and the singular excellence of its wines.
